Eaton named exclusive distributor for Kyoritsu in New Zealand

Christchurch, NEW ZEALAND. Power management company Eaton has strengthened its longstanding partnership with electrical test and measurement leader Kyoritsu after being appointed its exclusive distributor in New Zealand.

With Eaton achieving tremendous success with Kyoritsu as its exclusive distributor in Australia for the past 20 years, the new agreement will provide opportunities for Kyoritsu to grow its presence in New Zealand and leverage the expertise of Eaton across the region.

Dan Agnew, Eaton General Manager, Power Distribution ANZ said the Kyoritsu partnership, which complements Eaton's extensive range of power distribution components, demonstrates the strong alignment that both companies have in safety and innovation.

"For almost 80 years, Kyoritsu has been designing high quality instruments that allow electricians, maintenance technicians and engineers to conduct safe, reliable testing and measurement across all types of installations.

"Eaton is proud to be representing Kyoritsu in New Zealand and looks forward to working with channel partners to drive growth across the extensive Kyoritsu range from analogue and digital multimeters, right through to high-end power quality analysers."

Kyoritsu's senior management issued the following statement: "We are pleased to be expanding our existing relationship with Eaton and look forward to providing the New Zealand market with greater levels of service and support."

Kyoritsu offers an extensive range of high-quality electrical test and measurement instruments that are widely used and trusted by electricians, maintenance technicians and engineers throughout a diverse range of industries and applications. The products which are designed to test the safety of electrical installations, range from handheld multimeters and clamp meters all the way to high-end power quality analysers.
